OBJECTIVES OF INSTRUCTION: The primary objectives of the Intelligence Products Exhibit are: 1. to bring together for the students a representative sample of the types of intelligence products produced by CIA and other U.S. intelligence agencies; 2. to place the students in a position where they can speak with representatives of overt Offices of CIA so that they might learn more of the organization and functions of CIA; 3. to permit the students to learn first hand the services available to them in the overt offices; 4. to acquaint the students with a general knowledge of the types of information and intelligence needed by

SUMMARY OF PRESENTATION: the overt Offices to carry out their mission.

The Intelligence Products Exhibit consists of twenty-one separate exhibits representing the intelligence products and activities of the overt Offices of CIA, DD/P, and other U.S. intelligence agencies. At the present time (December 1953) ten of the exhibits are staffed by personnel from the Office represented in the individual exhibit. The exhibit is held in the auditorium of the R&S Building during each running of the Phase I - Orientation Course. The exhibits are placed on 6" x 8" masonite and plasterboard panels throughout the R & S auditorium. Details of each exhibit are listed on the pages attached.

SUBJECTS WITH WHICH COORDINATION IS REQUIRED: All material presented in the first two weeks of the Phase I - Orientation Course.
